

The LIS School Garden:

LIS parent Gitte Vogel-Sirin has taken the school garden under her wing. With the weekly Garden Workouts she has gotten other parents involved and given many the chance to get involved in something rewarding while also getting to know other members of the LIS community. Everyone does what they can. The location is used as an outdoor classroom and is equipped with benches and blackboard but also as a place to just get students and parents to follow the delights of watching things grow.

Getting their hands dirty, exercising their green thumbs and seeing the literal fruits of their labor is all part of the joy of being in the garden. For their efforts, all volunteers are allowed to take home a portion of the harvest. Here are a few snap shots of the past season and the delicious salad the parents put together from the garden's bounty.

The lady herself, Gitte Vogel-Sirin brightening up the landscape with some colourful signage.

A parent gardener harvesting lettuce for the salad.

Fresh, own grown and delicious.

LIS Dad doing some much-needed handy work in the garden. Thanks for your involvement!

Sun ripened tomato.

Edible flowers are also to be found in the garden.
Here a lovely nasturtium to garnish a salad perhaps?

We are happy to meet you in the garden for our Morning Garden Workout:

Every Tuesday from 8:30-10:30

So if you enjoy gardening and community work, please come along and enjoy the fun. Tools, coffee, tea and professional guidance will be provided. Everyone is very welcome!